Emergency Evacuation Policy and Procedures

Evacuation Precautions

- At least one evacuation drill should be carried out each term.
- All visitors must be given a Visitor and Safeguarding Information leaflet when signing in.
- Signage for exits and assembly points must be clearly visible in all rooms.
- Adequate prevention should be taken at all times against any risk of fire. Storage should never provide an opportunity for fire to take hold on combustible materials, i.e. wax crayons, waste materials used for various creative purposes, etc.
- Displays/decorations and flimsy paper decorations should be kept well away from electric light fittings and any other source which might prove a hazard.
- Fire doors should always be kept free and easily accessible.
- A key to open gates must be kept where it can be easily identified and found in the office.
- The headteacher or business manager, or their representative, will unlock the gates for the emergency services.
- Appropriate risk assessments must be regularly carried out and fire audit conducted annually.
- Fire blankets are stored in the staff room and in the kitchen.

Evacuation Drill Procedures

- The headteacher may select a section of the school in which a 'fire' has started.
- The fire alarm is sounded.
- No calls will be made to the Fire Service. However, it is important that the arrangements made to prevent a call being made to the Fire Service for the drill should not result in delay in calling in the event of a fire.
- A full evacuation of the building should take place under the guidance of the teachers in charge of classes at the time of the alarm.
- Everyone to assemble on the MUGA or a designated second place if the MUGA is unavailable.
- A register for each class to be carried out by Teachers, and confirmed complete to the headteacher or their representative.
- Missing persons to be searched for by appointed people only.
- Fire-fighting operations, if considered necessary by the headteacher, to be undertaken by competent members of the staff pending arrival of the Fire Service.
- No-one to re-enter the building until the headteacher, their representative or the fire service has authorised this.
- All evacuation drills should be recorded in the log book.
